

Montarado Guitars Ordering Information

All instruments are individually crafted to player specifications, so please contact us to discuss the sound, playability and visual goals you have for your finished instrument.

Prices on this website represent standard starting prices and a few modest upgrades. Actual costs may vary slightly due to your final specifications, as well as changes in material costs and/or availability. Once we agree on the exact specifications for your instrument, Montarado will provide you with a final quote.

A $500.00 non-refundable deposit will be required to secure your position on our waiting list. When work is ready to begin on your instrument, an additional non-refundable deposit of 50% of the remaining purchase price will be required.

We'll be in touch to confirm your selections when we're ready to begin work on your instrument. Once work begins, no changes in specifications can be made.

The final payment in full (including sales tax, shipping and packaging costs, and insurance fees) will be due immediately upon completion.

Most builds take from three to five months to complete. We understand that you're eager to receive your new Montarado guitar, but the level of quality that we expect for each of our instruments requires a substantial time investment. We trust you'll find the final product to be well worth the wait!
